FINAL EXERCISES OF SCHOOLS ATTENDED BY LARGE CROWD

Many Parents and Friends See Large Class Graduate From High School At Commencement Thursday Evening.

The Maysville High School Auditorium was comfortably filled on Thursday evening at the commencement exercises of the class of 1921 and a very interesting program was rendered by members of the class.

Six members of the class made addresses. Miss Frances VanArsdel, second honor pupil, delivered the Salutatory. Her subject was "The Twentieth Century Woman," while Miss Georgia Carrigan, the first honor pupil, delivered the Valedictory, her subject being "The Successful Twentieth Century Man." Other addresses by class members were: "Making Good In Your Home Town," by Albert S. Knox; "A Spoken Word," by Mildred Proctor; "The American Boy," by William Homer Rice; "Defense of the Movies," Joe H. Wadsworth. All of the addresses were of splendid thought and displayed careful preparation while their delivery plainly showed that the class had made no mistake in its selection of representatives.

Principal George J. Noel presented the honors and Dr. J. H. Samuel, the President of the City Board of Education, presented the diplomas after an address of congratulation and encouragement to the graduates and their parents.

Music by the High School orchestra during the evening was greatly enjoyed. Numbers by the Girls' Glee Club and a special mixed chorus were delightful. The class of '21 was fortunate in having two soloists of unusual talent — Miss Elzene Russell and Mr. W. R. Smith, Jr., both sang sweetly and captivated the audience.

TEACHERS LEAVING FOR HOME.

Now that all school affairs are at an end, the teachers of the city schools are leaving for their homes throughout the country. The great majority of the teachers will return for next year. Only a few vacancies in the teaching force remain to be filled by the School Board.

Mrs. W. F. Johnson and sons leave Friday for Louisville, Ky., for a month's visit with relatives.

COUNTY ATTORNEY REES IS SEEKING RE-ELECTION

W. H. Rees Announces Himself As a Candidate to Re-Election to Office of County Attorney.

County Attorney W. H. Rees today announces himself as a candidate for re-election to the office he now fills subject to the endorsement of his party's voters at the August primary.

Mr. Rees has served Mason county as its legal adviser and County Prosecutor since the resignation of his law partner, Hon. Thomas D. Slattery, and has done well. He is an accomplished young attorney, who has made a close study of law as it affects the various departments of county government and is quite well fitted for the office. His past term has the better qualified him as through these four years of experience he has stored up information that is of great value to the county.

It is understood that Mr. Rees will not likely have opposition in the primary election.

MAYSLEICK COLORED SCHOOL ACCEPTED BY BOARD.

At a special meeting of the Mason County Board of Education held on Wednesday afternoon the new colored school building at Mayslick was accepted as a county school building and an appropriation was made by the board. This is one of the best colored schools in the state and the live, wide-awake colored people of the Mayslick neighborhood are to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts. The most of the cost of this splendid building was paid by the colored citizens of that section of the county.

NORMAL SCHOOL INTEREST CONTINUES TO GROW.

As the Mason County Normal school nears the end of the first week it can be seen by those who are watching the school that great good is to be accomplished for the teachers of both the city and county. Interest continues to grow with each day and several new teachers are enrolling. The class room work is very interesting and the five weeks course will do a great good to those who have taken advantage of the opportunities offered them by the state, county and city.

The recital at St. John's hall Friday night by the music class of Miss Lida Berry will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. The program will be completed in ample time for the Alumni dance.

YOUNG WIFE SLAYS HUSBAND ON TRAIL IN FLEMING COUNTY

Fleming County Girl-Wife Shoots Husband Through Heart After She Had Been Wounded In Arm By Shot Gun.

Fleming county is stirred over a tragedy.

Arthur Collins, 26 years of age, is dead and his wife, only 19 years of age is in jail at Flemingsburg charged with the murder. She is suffering from a wound in the arm said to have been inflicted by a shot gun in the hands of the husband.

The couple is said to have been estranged for several months and the wife went to Carter county to make her home. On Wednesday night she returned to the home of her step-father near Plummers Landing in Fleming county. It is reported that the husband had become jealous of another man and the young wife is said to have heard this and arming herself with an automatic pistol, she left the home of the step-father.

The husband and wife met on a mountain trail near Plummers Landing and an argument and duel followed. The woman is said to have been shot in the arm with a shot gun the husband carried and as he fled, she fired eight times with her automatic. One of these struck the fleeing husband in the heart and caused his almost instant death.

The best music obtainable has been procured by the committee and one of the biggest and best dances of the year is contemplated.

16-YEAR-OLD BOY DROWNS IN KINNEY CREEK

Boys Returning From Sunday School Take Swim — All Poor Swimmers And Could Not Help Companion.

Otto Osborne, 16, son of James Osborne of Red Brush, was drowned in Kinney Creek near Records Sunday evening about 3 o'clock. He and a number of other boys were coming home from Sunday school. They passed by the creek and the warm, sparkling water tempted them, as all other boys, to try a swim. None of the boys were good swimmers and when Otto took cramps they were unable to help him, in fact all except Robert Neal became frightened and ran away to their home. Robert was unable to save the drowning boy, but when he sank, he quickly spread the news around the neighborhood.

Bruce Sellars of Garrison was called and secured the body by diving. One and one-half hours had elapsed, however, and death had won the race. The body was buried in Tannery cemetery Monday afternoon.

The lad's mother is dead, but his father, James Osborne, and grandfather, Simon Osborne, survive and have the sympathy of all in their sad bereavement. — Vanceburg Sun.

ADDRESS OF GRADUATE TO BE PUBLISHED.

Mayor T. M. Russell, who is also manager of the Washington and Gem theaters, was forcibly struck with the address of Joe Wadsworth at High School Commencement last night in defense of the movie and has asked Mr. Wadsworth to furnish him with a copy of the address which will be published in the Moving Picture World, an international weekly devoted to the interests of the Moving Picture business.

Those who were fortunate enough to see "Something To Think About" at the Washington theater Thursday night are loud in their praise of this feature picture. It is said to be one of the greatest of sermons and by far one of the greatest pictures seen here in months. The picture will be repeated Friday night at the Gem theater.

MAYSVILLE MAN MAKES STRONG RACE FOR K. P. TREAS.

Mr. W. A. Munzing, of this city, was one of the candidates for Treasurer of the Grand Lodge of Knights of Pythias which met in Lexington this week and was defeated for that office by only 32 votes. EASTERN STAR HOLDS INSTRUCTION SCHOOL THIS AFTERNOON

Worthy Matron of State of Kentucky Here to Instruct Various Chapters In Work—Initiation Tonight—Picnic at Park.

The Eastern Star Chapters of north-eastern Kentucky have full sway in Maysville today. Many visitors from some eight or ten chapters throughout this section are spending the day in Maysville to attend a school of instruction in charge of the Grand Worthy Matron of the state of Kentucky.

Friday evening the Maysville Chapter will be host at a picnic dinner at Beechwood Park and in the evening work will be conferred upon a large class at the Masonic Temple.

Although only a few years old, the Maysville Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star is now considered one of the best and liveliest in the whole state of Kentucky. The degree team has gained for itself quite a reputation and is often called upon to exemplify the work in other sections.

The visit of the Grand Worthy Matron to Maysville Friday is considered quite an honor and the various committees are leaving nothing undone to make her visit and the visit of the delegates from all the chapters throughout this district an enjoyable affair.

FOLLIS IS STILL AT LARGE.

Frankfort, Ky., June 17. — All roads leading to this city were being watched carefully today, while several posse renewed search for John Fallis, merchant, for whose capture Governor E. P. Morrow has offered a $500 reward.

Fallis Wednesday shot four policemen and two citizens when barricaded in his home resisting arrest.

The police today have a note from Duval, Scott county, which they believe was written by Fallis to his wife, saying: "If you don't get 'Morg' Brawner and I get back to town, I will." A gun accompanied the note.

Brawner is a deputy sheriff, and the note threatening him was placed on a Cincinnati-Frankfort train by the station agent at Duval. Wallace Carter, engineer, on reaching here, immediately turned the note and gun over to sheriff Bain Moore.

Col. B. C. Grigsby, president of the Old Settlers' Association, is keeping things moving for the biggest and best 4th of July picnic ever held on Ruggles campgrounds. While everyone is cordially invited and will be shown a big time, a special effort will be made to get the old settlers to attend. To encourage their attendance Col. Grigsby announces that several prizes in gold will be given during the day to the old settlers. Ten dollars will be given to the couple attending who have been married longest; five dollars will be given to the couple coming second as to time. Then five dollars will be given the oldest, and $2.50 the second oldest man present. Five dollars will also be given to the oldest woman, and $2.50 the second oldest woman in attendance. The only thing the association asks is that all contestants must be present and register with the secretary before 12 o'clock—noon. And at 1:30 p. m. the winners will be announced and the prizes given. Contestants will be limited to but one prize.

Remember two of Kentucky's best orators and favorite public men—Geo. Colvin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Major H. H. Denhardt, of Bowling Green, will be present and speak during the day.

WIFE ASKS FOR DIVORCE AND ALIMONY.

Mrs. Lillian B. Morgan brought suit in the Mason Circuit Court Friday asking a divorce from her husband, Everett Morgan, well known local automobile man. They were married on August 7, 1905, in Covington and lived together until 1918 when they separated and the wife filed suit for a divorce in the Kenton Circuit Court. A reconciliation was reached and the suit was withdrawn. They were separated again six months ago, she says in her petition. She now asks for an absolute divorce, the custody of their two minor children, alimony of $100 per month and other relief. A general order of attachment is asked against all the husband's property and all funds in all the Maysville banks.

WILL SPEAK IN INTEREST OF TOBACCO ORGANIZATION.

Hon. James N. Kehoe, of this city, member of the organization committee of the Co-operative Tobacco Growers' Association, will present the plan to the farmers of Gallatin county at Warsaw on Saturday, June 25th.

OVER A MILLION POUNDS OF WEED SIGNED AT MEET

Campaign To Sign-up Mason County In Co-operative Tobacco Marketing Plan Will Go Into Every Precinct and Neighborhood.

Those who are at the head of the campaign for the proposed Co-operative Tobacco Marketing system are very much pleased with the actual success of Thursday's meeting which was addressed by Mr. Aaron Sapir, author of the plan. There were some 67 growers who signed the pledges, pledging over a million pounds of Mason county's tobacco crop for the year 1921.

This as a start is considered very good but the campaign is just beginning in Mason county and as soon as the organization is completed, it is the purpose of the leaders to carry the pledges into every precinct, neighborhood and home and before the drive is completed every land owner and tenant in Mason county will be given an opportunity to sign one of the pledges.

An effort will be made to sign-up at least 75 per cent. of the county's 1921 crop and it is not expected that there will be the least bit of trouble in getting this amount of the Mason county weed signed.

OUR POLICY:

And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of the county as a whole.

AMERICA HAS NO USE FOR "RED" LABOR.

"Alderman Shiplacoff, one of the leaders in the radical movement, made recently the following declaration before a meeting of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America:

"We are going to move heaven and earth to educate our people that they and they alone are the owners of industry. The workers of Russia have found it out, God bless them!

"If I knew old Sammp Gompers knew as much as that, I would tell you to go and do what the workers did in Turino. Ten thousand of them marched to the factory with music and a flag, and they opened the doors and went to work and said, 'To hell with the owners of the factory.'"

"Everybody knows it is war. We are going to control the industry."

"The clothing manufacturers of New York have well said that the issue between them and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America is the plain one of Americanism against European radical revolutionary socialism.

"Few of the Amalgamated members read or write English. They are chiefly Russians, Polacks and Italians. Sidney Hillman, their president, is, with Shiplacoff and others of his ilk, one of the most aggressive radical Socialists in America. The union itself is operating under the soviet principles. Its main purpose is frankly to train the workers in solidarity and prepare them for the day when they shall have gained sufficient power to seize industry. Its leaders are in close touch with the I. W. W., the One Big Union, and the radical parties in the country affiliated with the Third Internationale. The Amalgamated call members of the American Federation of Labor 'scabs.' Its strikers in Boston posted placards, 'To hell with the United States.' Its organ, 'The Advance,' steadily preaches European radicalism. The union's basic motive is little less bolshevik than Leninism. It is saturated with the red propaganda.

"The clothing manufacturers of New York have most of them been in a situation of unspeakable humiliation. The body of their help, sovietized, has constituted a mass of complete enmity and defiance. The owners have had no control over factory morale. They have had to pay high wages for a loafing system of production utterly beyond their management. The chance of winning labor co-operation was hopeless because, in the tightly closed shop, the workers held to the theory that ownership of the industry was rightly theirs; the employers were merely surplussage, 'idlers,' as Shiplacoff says.

"This sort of a situation is absolutely intolerable from the American point of view. Democracy and revolutionary radicalism cannot live in peace together; they are totally in opposition at every angle of contact.

"Will America continue to allow revolution-saturated foreigners to conspire and plot against the institution and the freedom of the land which has offered them refuge and the opportunity of self-betterment through orderly means? Have we a free country, indeed, or is it an exploitation ground for agitators who would blast, if they could, the order of things here as terribly as that was done in Russia?

"The Evening Mail believes in legitimate labor unionism. Red radicalism is open class warfare; it is social, moral, economic and political sedition against every dear ideal and hard won standard of American character, and it should be uncompromisingly dealt with as such wherever its venomous head appears."—From the New York Evening Mail.

MENE, MENE, TEKEL UPHARSIN.

A special cable dispatch to the Washington Herald conveys the information that although there are 5,000,000 men out of work in Great Britain, including the 600,000 cotton mill workers who have just gone on strike, yet the social world in the empire is at its gayest. This may readily be believed, especially since it is vouched for by the Herald. It may also be accorded some color of credibility in view of the general policy of Great Britain in managing her affairs. At the same time that she is owing the United States billions of dollars on which there is delinquent interest due, that country has loaned money to South American countries for the purpose of strengthening her position in rivalry with the United States. There is no need to be surprised at anything.

OHIO HAS MORE BIG CITIES THAN ANY OTHER STATE.

Columbus, Ohio. — There are more cities of 100,000 population or more in Ohio than in any other state in the country, according to 1920 census statistics compiled by Secretary of State Smith. There are seven such cities in Ohio, while New York has six, and Pennsylvania four. Cincinnati, Dayton, Cleveland, Columbus, Akron, Toledo and Youngstown are the 100,000-plus cities of Ohio; Albany, Buffalo, New York, Rochester, Syracuse and Yonkers in New York. On the other hand, Ohio has 15 counties that haven't any urban population (no municipalities of 2,500 or over): Adams, Brown, Carroll, Clermont, Geauga, Harrison, Holmes, Monroe, Morgan, Morrow, Noble, Paulding, Pike, Putnam and Vinton. Ohio now has, the statistics show, 94 cities (5,000 or more population), compared with 80 in 1910, while the number of villages decreased from 728 to 725. The urban population (in municipalities of 2,500 or more) increased since 1910 from 2,865,143 to 3,677,136, while the rural population dropped from 2,101,978 to 2,082,258. The urban population last year was 63.8 per cent. of the state's total, as against 55.9 in 1910 and 48.1 in 1900.

U. S. Public Health Service doctors are studying how to prescribe for streams that are suffering from over contributions of sewage. When once a quantitative relation between the pollution on the one hand and the population industrial waste, stream flow, and temperature of the other has been established the stream doctors will be better able to prescribe the sort of tonic that will restore the stream to health and make it available for drinking or industry or both.

$20,000,000 FLOOD DAMAGE TO HIGHWAYS

Colorado Engineer Reports the Wrecking of Bridges and Roads.

Denver, Colo. — At least twenty million dollars will be required to repair the highways and bridges of Colorado as a result of the recent floods, it was estimated by Major L. D. Blannvelt, state highway engineer, upon his return from an inspection trip of the Colorado Springs-Pueblo road districts. "From all reports received," he said, "I am convinced that Governor Shoup's request for $10,000,000 from the Federal Government to be used in restoring the road lines of communication in this state is very conservative."

Loss to the Western Union Telegraph company in Pueblo flooded area was officially placed at $150,000. The company, it is said, has twenty miles of ruined line between Pueblo and Canyon City.

New York. — Wouldn't our city's recent notable guests have been amazed if they had known that they had been granted the privilege of pushing a peddler's cart about our nipped streets? At the time of one alderman's discussion over granting the "freedom of the city" to a visiting scientist of considerable fame, the question was raised, "Just what is this granted freedom anyhow?" In the words of the much quoted play, "What's all the shootin' for?" Well, Mrs. John King Van Rensselaer, descendant of some of those who established Manhattan's laws and precedents, has come forward with an answer. At least, she gives us the original meaning, but admits that times have changed, and that she'd like to know for herself what the modern phrase is all about. In the days of her remote ancestors, says Mrs. Van Rensselaer, the freedom of the city amounted in effect to a peddler's license, which gave the holder freedom to push his cart and sell his wares in the city streets. She has a copy of one of these ancient documents. And she is interested in knowing whether the Aldermen stick to the old form and grant just that to the city's honored guests. If it means something else she thinks the officials ought to tell us what it is and show us the documents.

—NY—
One more new profession! There's a nattering young man who just walks about town looking for auto mishaps. Then he steps politely up and tells you how much he'll take to put your auto all in shape. Or if it is too far gone, he'll offer to buy it for cash. He walks out into the morning air, gets a hunch from somewhere as to what part of town will be a good one for accidents that day and sallies forth.

—NY—
I feel somewhat like a brand new just-turned-twenty-one voter out to do something large and definite in the world as one finds it. For I have been rushing up to Poughkeepsie for a whole week of morning sessions of the Vassar Alumnae conference. They were serious affairs, too. The cartoonists who draw pretty pictures of college gatherings would have sat back and slept sweetly. And I felt quite aged at the new things being done in college since I stepped out of its doors. Consequently I have to talk about it even here. The Vassar alumnae, impelled with the realization that a big college group ought to take definite part in threshing out some of the problems of its generation, sat down and threshed with might and main. What ought college to do for its students? What does it do? What can it do further? All of those things were taken up along with such general subjects as growth of greater democracy, co-operation, freedom, responsibility, and other details which this country as a whole is getting down to doing some hard thinking about. And after sitting in at those discussions I shall never again feel vague and uncertain when some one asks me suddenly "What DOES college do for women anyhow?" Why, I haven't heard so much public spirit and so much sanity in ages. I certainly am being proud of my alma mater!

The poor man was trying to sell his "Panama" hats by that oldest dog in the world. "I'm the man from Panama," he told the housewife as he sidled into her door. "My sister makes these hats in Panama. I get them up here and sell them to you for nothing. Think, lady, a real Panama hat for $5!" The lady "thought" and remembered his appearance one other time as "The man from Montreal" with furs. Then she looked inside the hats. A little Japanese label in each one! "Your sister must have gone to Japan," she said. "See here it is — the words the Japanese put in." The man was visibly confused. He mutely surrendered; packed the hats and turned to go. Then he turned around, bereft of salesmanship, lowered his voice and said, not as a salesman, but as one human being to another, "Hon-est, lady, tell me. These hats, do they really come from Japan?"

When Yvette Bullbert agreed to sing for the Neighborhood Playhouse the management had only a little time to get the program printed. As it was a rush job, the printer was relied upon to correct proofs himself. Not until the night of the performance was it discovered that the singer was billed as Yette Guilbert. But she considered it only as a sign that the ast side had adopted her as their own and she smiled in gratification.

For recent motorists in that direction have brought back news upon which the daily commuters have maintained discrete silence. A huge sign has been erected on the shore, right by the main motor road announcing Greenwich as the "Home of Gentlemen" and the "Gateway of New England." Are they being personal? That's what New York wants to know.

UNCLE TED'S BED-TIME STORIES.

The First Navy Man in the Cabinet—A Story of John W. Weeks.

"Yes it is the first time, isn't it Uncle Ted?" asked Ruth.
"I didn't hear what you said, Ruth," answered Uncle Ted. "Jack was making so much noise."
"I said that Secretary of War Weeks is the first graduate of the Naval Academy to be a cabinet officer," repeated Ruth.

"That's right, Ruth. It is the first time the history of the country and more than that it is the first time a navy man was ever placed at the head of the army, that is, as Secretary of War."
"Tell us a story about him, Uncle Ted," asked Jack.

"Sure, I will, Jack, because he is a mighty interesting man. Secretary of War John Wingate Weeks, of Massachusetts, is 'first' in a lot of things. Besides those things I have just told you he is the first navy man who ever sat in the United States Senate and the first navy man to be voted for for President in a national convention, for you know he got more votes for the Republican nomination in 1916 than anyone except Charles E. Hughes, who is now Secretary of State.

"Secretary Weeks graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1881. That class is famous for its prominent members. General Barnett, former head of the United States Marine Corps, was a member of the class, as was Senator Weller of Maryland, and Baron Uriu, a famous Japanese admiral, who is now visiting in Washington. He didn't stay in the navy because Congress passed a law to muster out of the service most of the graduates of this class, as there were so many officers and so few vessels at the time. While Secretary Weeks is a navy man, he does not feel lost at the head of the war department. During the recent war, when he was a member of the Senate from Massachusetts, he was on the Senate military affairs committee, and of course he was in close touch with the army and its needs."

"What does he think about a big army?" asked Ruth.

"Well I'll tell you, kiddies, Secretary Weeks is not in favor of a huge army. He believes under the present conditions that we must have an army, though, and he believes it should consist of 175,000 men, the number he recommended to Congress. He thinks that in time some kind of an agreement can be made to cut down the great armies and navies of the world and reduce the tremendous costs to the governments that make taxes so high in so many countries.

"The job of Secretary of War is a big one and a hard one and it takes a man of strength both mentally and physically. For that reason the people of the United States should be mighty proud that President Harding has selected a man who fills both of those requirements. You know a lot of people throughout the country think that the men who are running our government in Washington get to work about 10 o'clock in the morning, take two hours for lunch and go out for golf or some form of amusement in the middle of the afternoon. When they think that they are all WRONG. I have watched these men and I know something of their habits.

"As for Secretary Weeks he does not wait until the time that the clerks of the War Department report in the morning — he is at his desk every morning at 8 o'clock and many nights it is long after the time for most people's evening meal when he starts for home. He doesn't always quit then for many times he takes some work home to go over in the quiet of the evening.

"There has always been a lot of talk about the fact that if a man ran his business as the government is run he would be ruined in a short time. That theory is being rapidly done away with, for the men selected by President Harding to run the affairs of the country are using real business methods. Secretary Weeks is a business man and he is running the War Department with business methods. Before he was elected to Congress he was a successful banker in Boston. He gave this up, and so far as I know, today his only interest is the interest of running the War Department in the best way it has ever been handled.

"With the hard work and business sense Mr. Weeks is using, it should mean a big saving to the government."
"Doesn't he take any time to play," asked Jack.

"Yes, of course, Jack, he must get some recreation. Once in a while he gets away for a game of golf, which he has just learned to play, and when he has been able to get away from Washington he likes to go to his farm, where he was born, in New Hampshire."

"He's a big man, isn't he?" asked Jack.

"You bet he is, Jack. He is not only large but about six feet tall. When he was at the Naval Academy he was a wrestler and by keeping himself in good condition is now able to stand the long hours and hard work. You see it pays to take care of yourself, Jack, for in after years, you never know what big job you may be called upon to perform."

According to F. N. Whitney, of the National Surety Company, married men, fat men and profane men are considered good risks in indemnity companies.

CAPONIZED COCKERELS BRING HIGHEST PRICE.

After the price of broilers has taken its annual slump which is usually about the middle of June it will pay farmers to caponize the surplus cockerels, according to members of the poultry department of the College of Agriculture. Capons make one of the most delicious table fowls to be found and in addition are valued ten to 20 cents higher a pound than the ordinary cockerel. They also have a more docile disposition and put on meat at a more rapid rate than roosters which are not caponized.

Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, Rhode Island Red, Orpington and other general purpose cockerels are best caponized when they reach a weight of one and one-half pounds. One and one-half to two pounds has been found to be the best weight for Brahmas and Langshans. Cockerels should be caponized when the wattles and comb start reddening and growing. At this time the organs will be slightly larger than an oat kernel.

In preparing the birds for operation food and water should be withheld from them for thirty to forty hours in order that the intestines may become emptied. They should be confined in slatted bottom coops during this time to prevent them picking up anything which they might mistake for food.

Sometime during the middle of a bright day has been found to be the best time for performing the operation since at that time there is sufcient light to permit the work being performed to the best advantage. When only a few birds are to be caponized an ordinary sugar barrel stood on end makes a practical table as it is about the correct height and width. A board should be laid on the top of the barrel to serve as a table. Weights sufficiently heavy to prevent the birds from moving should be used to hold them on the table.

Complete information concerning caponizing operation may be obtained by writing the Experiment Station, Lexington, which issues a bulletin on the methods to be followed.

KINDNESS USED TO TRAIN CIRCUS ANIMALS

Gentry Bros. Shows Coming Here Next Week Finds Kindness Works Better Than Cruelty.

As a means of teaching children to be kind to dumb animals, the Gentry Bros. Show and wild animal arena is said to be a shining example, and during its exhibitions in Maysville on June 23rd, new ideas will be disclosed relative to animal subjugation and education, so it is promised.

No weapons are used in the training of any of the animals with the show; they are practically conquered by kindness and patience; animals have a liking of sugar and other sweets, and these play an important part in their training; the eagerness of the different animals to take their part in the performance, shows the pleasure they enjoy in their work.

Familiarity with the various members of the animal kingdom is food for the mind of the little members of the household; and kindness to animals should be early inculcated in the youthful mind; knowledge of animal's habits, traits and distinguishing characteristics gives diversion to the mentality, sharpens intelligence and stimulates healthy imagination; many a nursery story is vividly impressed at sight of the animal that was the principal character, and parents should encourage the children's interest in animals of all kinds, as it makes for intelligent and wholesome pastime.
